

The boy's mother called all her soldiers. She told them her son was free.

"Now he is safe, we can attack the city," she said. "My son will be king again."

"Hooray!" shouted the soldiers. They came down from the mountains and marched to the city. There was a big battle. Biff, Kipper and the boy watched the battle from a safe place.